

Jereth has struggled with reading and comprehension since he was young. We did 2 units of VT at another office and it was difficult to keep up with doing all the activities 6 times a day. I did see improvement but there was still so much farther to go.

I don't have to fight him to do home therapy. He enjoys doing it, along with his two other siblings that do it at the same time-an impossibility with the older system. They like games in the office too.

Jereth wants to read more and gets his schoolwork done quicker I like how he has been able to relate to the people he is working with. I recommend VT to everyone!
